Hear Me Roar . . . A Look at the Women Who've Changed Motorcycling History

Hear Me Roar: Women, Motorcycles, and the Rapture of the Road chronicles the bold world of women in motorcycling—the myths, the history, and subcultures of free-spirited riders with a passion for two wheels and the road. Written by a journalist from the saddle of her motorcycle, Hear Me Roar is the first account of this little-known facet of women's rocky road to personal independence in America.

This ground-breaking book is full of stories and photographs of pioneering women and their freedom machines, from the first grande dames who hitched up their skirts to ride motorized bicycles at the turn of the century, to the high-tech drag racers, endurance riders, stuntwomen, motocrossers, activists, and exotic adventure riders of today.

And, for veteran riders and newcomers alike, Hear Me Roar provides a reference section with practical information about motorcycle safety, how to choose a bike and leather gear, plus a one-stop resource directory with scores of listings for motorcycle clubs, websites, periodicals, manufacturers, where to find specialty parts to customize a bike, and much more.

Sftb. 7-1/8 x 9-1/8 in., 212 pp., b/w illus.

Includes a new Preface by the author on the latest news in women's motorcycling, as well as an updated Riders' Resource Directory!

Meet the Author!

Ann Ferrar will be available to autograph copies of the new printing of Hear Me Roar following the ribbon cutting ceremony which opens the AMA Women & Motorcycling Exhibit this Saturday, July 15th at 3:00. Sale proceeds will benefit the museum.

Ann Ferrar is an award-winning journalist whose career has spanned more than two decades. To research, write, and photograph Hear Me Roar, Ferrar rode 30,000 miles solo to interview hundreds of women bikers, explore historical archives, and attend motorcycle events. Her critically acclaimed book is the first and only such book of its kind in the Library of Congress.
